

School of Human Kinetics - Sport Psychology

The School of Human Kinetics is seeking a candidate to fill a tenure-track faculty position as of July 1st, 2013. The candidate must hold a Ph.D. and have a good background in teaching and research and should also be bilingual, although they will teach mainly in English.

The duties are teaching and research in sport psychology. The incumbent must be able to teach courses at the bachelor's and master's level and will be expected to develop a research program as well as supervise graduate students.

Laurentian University is an equal opportunity employer and is strongly committed to employment equity and diversity within its community. LU especially welcomes and encourages applications from members of visible minorities, women, Aboriginal persons, members of sexual minorities and persons with disabilities. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply, however Canadians and permanent residents will be considered first for this position.

LU is a bilingual institution and has a policy of passive bilingualism (English/French) as a condition of tenure. LU faculty members are part of LUFA (the Laurentian University Faculty Association). Information and the Collective Agreement can be found at www.lufapul.ca.

Applications will be reviewed commencing in February 2013, and will be accepted until a nominee is found. Applicants should submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, a sample of academic writing, a teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and sample course outlines), a concise research statement, and three letters of reference to:
